President's Message

Summer is finally here and the IACC is the place to be during the summer months. Whether you are swimming in the pool, playing bocce in a league or enjoying a sausage and pepper sandwich on Friday nights in our pavilion, there is something for everyone.

Last month was a busy month here at the club. We held our annual St. Anthony's Mass and Luncheon, our bocce leagues started and every Friday Night in the Pavilion has been busier than the week before. If you haven't made one yet, what are you waiting for?

Looking ahead, we have several great events scheduled. First on August 11th, we will hold our annual Ferragosto, a family event celebrating the most important day of summer in Italy. This event also serves as our annual IACC Member Picnic and is free for all members. Guests of members are welcome to attend for only $10. There is music, food, dessert and, of course, our famous bonfire at dusk. Don't forget to bring a lawn chair!

In addition on August 25th, the club is sponsoring a bus trip to the St. Anthony's Feast in Boston's Historic North End. The North End puts on an old fashion street festival with great music, delicious food and great entertainment. Make your reservations early. I think the bus will fill quickly.

If you are enjoying your time as a member here at the IACC, don't keep it to yourself. Tell a family member, a friend or neighbor about how special the club is to you and why they should become a member as well.

Ciao,

FRANK ZEOLI
ITALIAN AMERICAN COMMUNITY CENTER

‘BIRTH CERTIFICATES’ – NOT!!

By ANGELO F. CONIGLIO

I have written about this subject before, but as more and more descendants of Sicilian and Italian immigrants strive to identify their roots, I see increasing requests for their ancestors’ “birth certificates”. And I can’t say it often enough or clearly enough: in the 1800’s and early 1900’s, Sicilian and Italian families did not receive birth certificates when their children were born!

On the day of a child’s birth, or a day or two later, the child’s father (‘il dichiarante’, the declarant or informant) or the father’s representative physically carried the newborn to the ‘Casa Comunale’, the Town Hall, and presented it to a village official who was authorized to act as the ‘Ufficiale dello Stato Civile’ (Official of the Civil Status) of the town. This official might be the ‘Sindaco’ (mayor), ‘Assessore’ (Councilman), ‘Segretario Comunale’ (Town Secretary) or another elected or appointed official. That official took the informant’s declaration before two ‘testimonii’ (witnesses) and had it recorded by a clerk in two large registers of ‘Atti di Nascite’ (Records of Birth). Of these identical registers, one was kept (to this day) in the ‘Anagrafe’ or town Registry Office, and one was sent to the ‘Tribunale’, the Magistrate of the Province in which the town is located. This second copy was then filed permanently in the Provincial Archives.

Years later, if the child or his family needed proof of his birth (say for a marriage) they would go to the Town Hall and ask for the information. The clerk would look up the Birth Record and copy key information from it onto an ‘Estratto Certificato dello Atto di Nascita’: a Certified Extract of the Record of Birth. When uninformed descendants ask for a ‘birth certificate’, often this extract is what they receive. Translated, an example reads thusly:

Certified Extract of the Record of Birth
From the 1873 Register of Births, Part 1, Record 195
Surname: Aquilina      Given Name: Gaetano
Date of Birth: 23 August 1873
Father: Calogero Aquilina
Mother: Concetta Lombardo
Issued this day, 1 April 1897 in Serradifalco
by Luigi Antonio Saito, Town Secretary, Official of the Civil Status

Now, here's a complete translation of the actual Atto di Nascita:

Record 195

Gaetano Aquilina

Year 1873, day 23 of the month of August at hour 15:00 Italian Time in the Town Hall. Before me, Antonio Prizzi, Secretary of the Town of Serradifalco, Environs and Province of Caltanissetta, delegated to fulfill the function of Official of the Civil Status for the records of birth and of death by the Mayor of this Town, by act of 18 March of this year; has appeared Calogero Aquilina (son of the late Pasquale), age forty-six years, occupation sulfur miner, domiciled in Serradifalco, who has presented to me an infant of masculine sex who he declared was born at hour 17:00 Italian Time yesterday, of his wife Concetta Lombardo, daughter of the living Giuseppe, according to the declarant domiciled in their home located in this Town of Serradifalco at Via Crucilla number 9, to which son he gave the name of Gaetano. This declaration was made in the presence of Sebastiano Valenti (son of the late Vincenzo), age 28 years, and of Calogero Diforti (son of the late Moise) age 30 years; both sulfur miners residing in this Town, witnesses chosen by the declarant, and after having been read this record, inscribed on two original registers, it is signed only by me, the declarant and the witnesses having said that they don't know how to write.
[signed] Antonio Prizzi

Note that the extract not only leaves out many important details, it gives the wrong date of birth! The birth was reported on 23 August 1873, but the record itself states that the birth was 'yesterday', or 22 August 1873'. The clerk who filled out the extract made a common mistake and assumed the birth date was the same as the record date. The extract is a secondary record, the Atto di Nascita is a primary record and gives the correct date. The moral: don't settle for an extract!

Armand Marando

When seventeen year old Armand Marando embarked from Italy on the ship Cristoforo Colombo bound for New York City and northward to Troy, he was intending an adolescent adventure. He still maintains that he just wanted to “look around”. Apparently, he liked what he saw, because he has remained in the area for 63 years and counting, putting down deep roots and building a rich family life, rewarding career, and community connections.

Armand's father, Ferdinando (Fred) Marando had come to the U.S. long before Armand was born, seeking employment and money making opportunities. He found just that in Troy, at the operations and grounds department of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI). For over 50 years, he worked there and traveled back to the town of Ardore in Calabria whenever he could to be with his wife, Armand's mother, who was raising Armand and his older brother, Giuseppe (Peppi) and managing the family's land and houses.

That's how Armand had the idea to come to the Capital District as a tourist. Once he was here, the adventure turned into a lifestyle. He took a job at the Bendix factory (Later, it would become Honeywell) in Green Island and attended night classes at Troy High School, while he resided with a family at Franklin Square. His English was getting better and better and his savings account was growing! On the weekends, he enjoyed the nightlife in Albany, especially when dancing was involved.

Mary Lou Romano was a third generation Italian American living with her family in Albany around that time. Mary Lou's grandparents on both sides of the family had come from the Naples area, and her mother's maiden name was Vacariello. However, the family had lost touch with the Italian relatives and her mother came from a blended family of ten. Mary Lou had grown up in Arbor Hill and attended St. Joseph's Academy on Second Street and then Vincentian Institute in the days when boys were on one floor and girls on another. By that time, the Romano family had moved to Orlando Avenue. After high school, Mary Lou began her career as a secretary and enjoyed going out with her friends to dance. Ironically, one evening at the Polish club on Sheridan Avenue, a handsome stranger asked her to dance. She said no.

Finally, Mary Lou gave in and danced a polka with the stranger. Thus began a four year courtship of Armand and Mary Lou. Dancing was a favorite

An Accidental AMERICAN

Saturday night date even after they married and Armand moved to Mary Lou's neighborhood in Albany, where they still reside today. The couple took a three month honeymoon trip to Italy where MaryLou met Armand's family for the first time. To prepare, she had studied Italian in Fulvia's class at the IACC. Even so, dialect proved to be a barrier, but it didn't matter. Armand's mother loved Mary Lou from the start and MaryLou called her Mama from the day they met. The relaxed lifestyle and warmth of the culture called them back to Italy every so often for many years until Armand's brother passed.

After three years of marriage, the Marandos started a family of their own. They traveled to Italy again with their two sons, Michael and Joe, in 1973, so that they could meet the Italian relatives and appreciate the country and culture. Now, two granddaughters, Antonia and Julianna, show their appreciation and connection with their heritage by performing Italian folk dances with their dance troupe. Last year, they performed at several community events including Italian Night at the Joe Bruno Stadium and the Saratoga Race Track. It seems appropriate for the grandchildren of a couple who met dancing. As for Armand and Mary Lou, these days they prefer slower dances. They danced recently at Armand's 80th birthday party at the IACC where a three piece ensemble entertained the revelers.

Armand and his sons enjoy professional football together and maintain a friendly rivalry when it comes to their teams. Armand and Joe root for the Dallas Cowboys and Michael is a Miami Dolphins fan. Over the years, they have gone to some games together, spending a few days and having a football themed mini vacation. Most Sundays during football season are spent at home near the TV. Dinner time changes to accommodate the game and both sons may come over to watch.

Another one of Armand's passions is Formula One auto racing, especially when Italian cars and drivers are the focus. Armand has attended races in Loudon, New Hampshire where he met famous drivers Mario Andretti and Paul Newman. Among Armand's favorite memories was a race day over twenty years ago when he had a ticket that admitted him to the pit where he could meet the drivers. He had his photo taken with Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. That day, Michael Andretti (son of Mario Andretti) was driving a racecar owned by Paul Newman. And where was Mary Lou that day? She says that she went shopping.

Reflecting on their long-standing membership in the IACC, MaryLou and Armand report that their membership number is 0505. They joined the club in 1981, and like so many others, they were attracted by the swimming pool. Yet, they joined in every activity offered at one time or another. They have both served on the board many times and Mary Lou has been on the Foundation Board, necessary for the 501C3 status of the club as a cultural institution. The Marandos enjoy the many celebrations and, of course, they are looking forward to a great summer of Friday Nights at the Pavilion, which they see as the center of Italian culture at the club.

BEST OF THE BRONX DAY

The weather was perfect for our annual Best of the Bronx day. We saw a great game between the Yankees and Seattle Mariners and later enjoyed dinner and shopping at the Real Little Italy in the Bronx, Arthur Ave. Make your reservations today for our next trip which will be to Boston for the Saint Anthony's Festa on August 25th.

Women's League

Summer is upon us and it is time to enjoy meeting outdoors. This month our plans take us poolside. If you wish, you may swim; if not, just enjoy relaxing by the pool. Michele is going to lead water aerobics for our group. Jim Sano will be our grill master.

The Women's League's current project is to donate dresses to Angel Gowns. I contacted Carol Ann Selkis and told her I would seek donations for July. If you would like to participate; they need white, ivory, or light pastel dresses with a cotton or satin underlay. They use prom, wedding, communion, Easter dresses, etc. Please fold and place the dresses in a plastic bag and leave them at the IACC office or bring them to bocce or to our Women's League meeting. I will deliver them to the organization. They will then sew and donate the outfits to area hospitals to be given to families who have suffered the loss of a baby there. You may learn more online.

Last month's speaker, Catherine Jura of the Honest Weight Food Co-Op, tested our knowledge of seasonal vegetables and engaged us in conversation pertaining to shopping and preparing our favorite or new to us produce. We were treated to a sample of Golden Beets and Blue which Catherine assembled at our meeting. We left the meeting with many interesting hand-outs.

The dinner plan for the pool meeting is hot dogs and hamburgers for $5.00 per person. Members are also asked to contribute a covered dish, hors d'oeuvres, a dessert, or beverages. Please bring enough for 8 to 10 people. If you didn't sign up at our June meeting, you need to contact Sharon Patrei to make a reservation. Please call her at 518-765-3283 or email her at slpatrei@aol.com by Sunday, July 8th.

PATRIOTIC Trifle

This patriotic dessert is perfect for your 4th of July festivities! It's pretty, light, and refreshing. Made with jello, cool whip, and berries, there's no baking involved and all you need to do is layer!

You will need to start preparing this the day before (or several hours before) you plan on serving this so that the jello has time to set.

The jello will be the first (bottom) layer. Prepare red jello (any flavor you like that is red in color) according to box instructions. Pour the jello mixture into a trifle or large clear bowl and refrigerate as instructed. Once the jello is hardened, you may assemble the rest!

Wash and thinly slice strawberries. Lay a couple of layers of the strawberry slices on top of the jello. Next, spread a layer of thawed cool whip on top of the strawberries. The next layer is blueberries. Wash and dry the blueberries and lay them on top of the cool whip. Add more cool whip to the top of the blueberries and finally top with raspberries.

That's it!! So easy! This trifle is sure to be the centerpiece of the dessert table!

Buon Appetito!

St. Anthony's MASS & LUNCH

Our 2018 St Anthony's Mass was held on June 10th in the Roman Garden. After the mass a procession was led throughout the IACC grounds to the St. Anthony's Shrine & the IACC Pavilion for an authentic Sunday dinner. A special thanks to everyone who worked so hard to make this annual event possible.
