President's Message

What's the saying, "Don't blink or it will soon be over"? Well summer isn't over yet. There is still plenty of good swimming, Friday night pizzas and events at the club to enjoy.

This month, we have some great events planned. On August 11th, we will host Ferragosto, a family event celebrating the most important day of summer in Italy. We use this celebration to honor our members with a full day of food, music and, as is customary for Ferragosto in Italy, a glorious bonfire at dusk. Please plan on attending. The event is free for members. Friends and neighbors are welcome for only $10 per person. Trust me, you won't want to miss it.

Also this month we will be sponsoring a bus trip to the 99th annual St. Anthony's Festival in Boston's historic North End. On August 25th, we will spend the afternoon and evening enjoying great music, delicious food and lots of fun and excitement. There are only a few seats left so call today and reserve yours.

More information on both of these great events can be found in this month's issue of our Siamo Qui.

Our Friday Nights in the Pavilion are busting at the seams with record attendance week after week. Stop by for one of our weekly food specials or Luigi DeNitto's Neapolitan pizza. I promise you won't be disappointed. We start serving at 5pm every Friday until September 14th.

I hope to see many of you at our Ferragosto celebration. It's a great way to spend time with your fellow IACC club members.

Ciao,

FRANK ZEOLI
ITALIAN AMERICAN COMMUNITY CENTER
PRESIDENT

Fathers and Mothers

By ANGELO F. CONIGLIO

As early as 1805, Atti di Nascite, or Civil Records of Birth, were recorded for births of all children in the Kingdom of Sicily (lu Regnu, in Sicilian), which ranged from Abruzzo and Napoli on the Apennine Peninsula to Messina and Palermo on insular Sicily. These were called Napoleonic records because they adhered to the format prescribed by Napoleon's Civil Code, and were adopted even in states where Napoleon did not rule. They were also instituted at about the same time in the peninsula's northern duchies and principalities, but were less uniform there because of the varying political authorities.

By 1820, the Kingdom of Sicily had become The Kingdom of the Two Sicilies, but still comprised all the territory of the original Regnu. In that year, the entire nation adopted uniform, preprinted forms for the civil registration of all births, marriage contracts and deaths. These forms were in use until 1866. The civil birth forms recorded the vital birth information on the left, and on the right acknowledged a report from the local parish, saying that the child had been baptized. The civil marriage documents were not 'marriage records' as such, but gave the vital details of the betrothed, again with a section on the right, noting when the marriage actually took place at the church. The actual marriage record was produced and retained by the church.

Due in part to the political upheaval of the 'unification', civil records from 1867 through 1874 were completely handwritten. In 1875, shorter pre-printed forms were introduced. Both the handwritten and new pre-printed forms generally followed the Napoleonic format.

The father would give his name, occupation, and street address, as well as the gender of the child, and state that the child was born of himself and his wife [Name and Surname], and he would state the name that the child was given. In some cases, a midwife or female relative would present the child and give the name of the mother and that of the father, explaining why he could not attend. For certain births, the midwife (or even the mother herself) would present a child, give its mother's name, and state that the father was 'ignoto' (unknown) or 'incerto' (uncertain!). In the latter cases, the child kept the mother's surname.

There were numerous cases in which a midwife or receiver of foundlings would present a child and say that it was found on a doorstep or in the town's foundling wheel, and that both parents were unknown. Such children were given concocted names, often with a fanciful given name, and a surname meaning 'castoff' or 'foundling'.

And then there were cases where a man would present a child and say that it was born of 'suo unione naturale con una donna, non minore, non maritata, non parenti, ne affine con lui nei gradi che ostano al riconoscimento, che non consente essere nominata' (his unwed union with a woman, not a minor, unmarried, not a relative and without consanguinity that would proscribe such union, who does not wish to be identified). What? The father of the child was known, but not the mother?

Having a child out of wedlock was a 'vergogna', a disgrace, not only to the woman, but to her family. Having her name officially recorded would magnify that disgrace. Obviously, the man knew who his child's mother was, as did the whole town, probably, but she was not officially shamed. It may be that in some cases, these were simply reports of children born out of wedlock, where a man protected the honor of his paramour by not naming her.

However, just as likely was this situation: a couple married in church but did not have a civil ceremony. Civil authorities did not recognize church marriages. They were illegitimate, as were any children born to the couple, and those children were so reported in the civil birth records. Again, the mother was not named, to protect her 'official' identity. There were scattered instances of feisty women who probably said 'damn the torpedoes' and not only appeared at their child's registration, but had their names recorded, most likely thinking "I was married in church, so there!" But for her children to qualify to inherit property, or for her to eventually be named on the children's marriage records or passports, she would have to, at some point, marry in a civil ceremony. That would record the children's names and dates of birth, and declare them legitimate, by power of the civil marriage.

However, something went missing. The 'unification' resulted in a schism between the new civil authorities and the church. Church properties were appropriated and disbursed among civil jurisdictions or private venture capitalists. Civil records now made no mention of the church or sacraments.

In the most general case, newborn infants were presented for civil registration by the child's father, to a Town's Ufficiale dello Stato Civile (Official of the Civil Status).

Women's League

Sun, Fun and Friendship! What a perfect day we had for our pool party! Michele Sano led everyone in a session of water aerobics. After that exercise, we were treated to a barbecue with the help of Tony Fazio and Jim Sano. This is what summer is all about!

Thank you to all who donated dresses for Angel Gowns. One special occasion dress you donate may become a memorial gift for several families; that is the power of giving. Carol Ann Selkis will distribute the dresses to her seamstresses to begin work on the Angel Gowns.

On Wednesday, August 8th, we will meet in the pavilion for our Paint and Sip. This meeting will begin earlier at 6 PM!!!! We will enjoy Giffy's barbecued chicken breasts for $5.00 per person. Members will contribute a covered dish, hors d'oeuvre, dessert or beverages. If you haven't signed up, please contact Sharon Patrei at 518-765-3283 or email her @slpatrei@aol.com by Sunday August 5th. After dinner, we will begin our Paint and Sip project. The cost is $25.00 and, if you wish, you may add a frame for $5.00. The next morning, your project will be ready to adorn your home!

Spaghetti with chicken sausage

Last night I walked through the door after my daughter's doctor appointment and had this meal on the table in 30 minutes! I love having my mini garden in the summer time and cooking with fresh basil and parsley. Cook it up with some tomatoes and garlic, and you have the most amazing-smelling base to any meal!

My kids recently made the discovery that they DO like chicken sausage (after all these years of me trying to get them to eat it). They like chicken...and they like sausage...BAM! Not sure what took them so long to make the connection. Anyhow, I had some in the fridge and added it to the "sauce". I tossed it all with spaghetti and we were sitting at the table a half hour later!

Ingredients:

- extra virgin olive oil (evoo)
- 2 garlic cloves, chopped
- 2 chicken sausage links, sliced
- handful of cherry tomatoes, halved
- handful of fresh basil, chopped
- handful of fresh parsley, chopped
- salt
- ground black pepper
- 1 pound of spaghetti

Instructions:

1. Bring a pot of salted water to a boil.
2. In a separate skillet, heat evoo (2 turns of the pan) over med-high heat.
3. Add garlic and simmer for a minute. Add the chicken sausage, tomatoes, basil and parsley.
4. Season with a pinch of salt and ground black pepper. Bring it all to a simmer. Turn the heat down to low and continue simmering while cooking the pasta.
5. Add the spaghetti to the pot of boiling water and cook according to box instructions (al dente).
6. Reserve a ladle of the cooking water and drain the spaghetti when done. Return it to the pot, add the reserved cooking water, and pour the skillet of "sauce" into the pot of spaghetti.
7. Return the pot to heat and toss it all together while letting the heat "cook" the sauce into the pasta, only for a minute.

Serve and enjoy!
