President's Message

2018 is off to a great start. Within the next few months, the IACC will unveil its new website which will highlight the many events, programs and cultural traditions we offer here at the IACC. Our second floor renovation is underway and progressing nicely. Once completed the hallway and board room will have new walls, lighting, ceiling tiles, doors and carpeting. A renovation of this nature has not taken place at the club in almost 20 years.

This month we will hold two of our annual Italian American events. First, our Super Bowl Party, which offers members and non-members an exciting way to enjoy the game by watching it on a 12 foot HD screen, will be held on February 4th. The event also includes, a dinner and halftime buffet, soda, beer, games of chance, raffles and prizes. Make your reservation today as this event sells out each year.

On February 17th, we will be hosting our annual Carnevale celebration. This year we will be highlighting Carnevale in Naples. The event is filled with great food, music and a little mystery. There will be a silent auction, prizes for best costume and other surprises sure to make this an evening you will never forget. The price is $50.00 for members and $60.00 for non-members.

A few months back I told you about some changes to our Siamo Qui. One of the sections we are trying to improve upon is the Caring and Sharing section. We want to be able to inform our members about any changes taking place in your life. Whether it is a death, birth, graduation or a new job we want to know about it. If you have any information you would like to share please contact the membership office so we may include your news in the next addition of our newsletter.

I am very excited as we continue through this, our 45th year, and I'm very happy to share these great events and traditions that make our club the premier Italian organization in the area.

Translation HINTS

Once you've found the original birth, baptism, marriage or death record of a Sicilian or Italian ancestor, if you don't understand Italian or Latin, you may be faced with another challenge: translating the records. I'll present some Italian examples that may be helpful.

Run-on sentences can be a problem, for example, the following: 'Avanti di Noi (Uffiziale) è comparso Giuseppe Curto fu Antonino di anni trenta, zolfataio domiciliato in questo via Scorsone.' If you enter that into a translator, it will produce the cumbersome 'Before Us (Official's name) is appeared Giuseppe Curto, was Antonino of years thirty, sulfur miner domiciled in this via Scorsone.' That doesn't make much sense unless you recognize that 'Noi' is the 'regal Us' and really means 'me'. And 'fu', which literally means 'was', here should be read as 'son of the late'. And that 'questo' means more than 'this', it means 'this Town'. Substituting, we get: 'Before me (Official's name and rank) is appeared Giuseppe Curto, son of the late Antonino of years thirty, sulfur miner domiciled in this town via Scorsone.' This still could use some clarification. Do the age, occupation and residence apply to Giuseppe or to his father Antonino? Does the age apply to one and the other information to the other? Transcribed in the proper sense, rather than literally, the statement says: 'Before me (Official's name) has appeared Giuseppe Curto, age thirty years, a sulfur miner domiciled in this town at via Scorsone; son of the late Antonino Curto.'

Many civil records show an individual's 'professione', 'occupazione' or 'condizione' (profession, occupation, condition or status). It is important to make note of these and understand them, as different persons may have the same names, but may be differentiated by their status. Common occupations were 'agricoltore', 'campagnuolo', and 'contadino', all of which some researchers translate as 'farmer'. That fails to reflect the actual condition or status of the individual. An 'agricoltore', sometimes called a 'massaro' was the owner or manager of a farm, someone we might call a 'gentleman farmer'. A 'campagnuolo' was a 'field hand', hired by the 'agricoltore' for a day, week, or season's work in the fields. A 'contadino' was a peasant sharecropper (what might be called a 'dirt farmer') who worked another's (the farmer's) land for a small share of the crops and sometimes a place to live. Clearly, there was a difference in status between these 'condizioni'.

City dwellers also had class-distinctive descriptors for their condition: 'civile', 'proprietario', 'borgese', 'villico' and 'volgare'. 'Civile' denoted an upper-class citizen or civil servant.

A 'proprietario' was a business proprietor, landlord, or property owner. A 'borgese' was a middle-class townsman. 'Villico' is interpreted by many as simply 'villager', but would never be applied to upper- or middle-class village residents. 'Villico' is closer to 'peasant villager'. 'Volgare' denotes the vulgar or lowest class, a 'commoner'. Another descriptor that was used in civil records from the early 1880's through 1860 was 'regnicolo': literally, 'subject of the Realm', meaning 'subject of the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies.' Napoleonic-format civil records use a wealth of different 'condizione'. Some are listed below. Note that a person's occupation or condition may often have been transformed into an official surname.

- acquaiolo: water supplier
- arte donnesca: women's arts (lace-making)
- becchino: gravedigger, undertaker
- bordonaro: muleteer
- bottegaio, biottegario: shopkeeper
- bracciale, bracciante: day laborer
- capraio, capraro: goatherd
- carrettiere: carter
- casalinga: housewife, housekeeper
- cucitrice: seamstress, often a midwife
- donna di casa: housewife

- falegname: cabinetmaker, carpenter
- ferraro: blacksmith
- filatrice, filandiera: spinner of thread
- impiegato: servant, employee
- industrioso: workman
- levatrice: midwife
- marinaio, marinaro: sailor
- ortolano: greengrocer
- maniscalco: blacksmith
- manuale: day laborer
- murifabbro: stonemason, wall builder

- pecoraio, pecoraro: shepherd
- pescatore: fisherman
- possidente: landowner
- sensale: broker, middleman
- stagnataio: tinker, solderer
- tessitrice: weaver
- trafficante: dealer, barterer
- vaccaro: cattle herder
- vetturale: liveryman
- zolfai, zolfaro, zolfataio, zolfataro: sulfur miner

Mother-Daughter Luncheon & Fashion Show

With the hustle and bustle of the holiday season behind us, I'd like to wish everyone a Happy New Year! It is exciting to welcome in 2018 which marks the 45th anniversary of the I.A.C.C.

The Women's League is on our winter break. The new slate of officers, Lynn Indelicato-Vice President, Sharon Patrei-Treasurer, Marilyn Quadrini-Secretary and I are putting together the programs for our monthly meetings. We're looking forward to our upcoming meeting on Wednesday, March 14th, at 6:30 pm.

The Women's League meets on the second Wednesday of every month from March till December at 6:30 in the Dante Room. We enjoy a sit-down dinner and great conversation in a relaxed atmosphere. We, occasionally, have a speaker and pride ourselves on being a service organization.

As a member of just three years, I found the Women's League to be the best opportunity to meet and connect with members of the Italian American Community Center. It is my hope that more women will join us each month this year.

Mark your calendars to attend our annual Mother-Daughter Luncheon and Fashion Show on April 29, 2018. Our committee co-chairs, Maria DeNitto and Gail Tarantino, are busy working on our biggest fundraising event of the year.

The Family Easter Party will be held Saturday, March 24. Bring the family to enjoy an afternoon filled with fun! The Easter Bunny will attend too so remember to bring your cameras.

Linda C. Hoffman
Women's League President

Caring & Sharing

Congratulations to Chris and Catherine Kolias on the marriage of their daughter, Amanda, to George Hannah Jr. The newlyweds are also new members of the club.

CONDOLENCES

Dick Ognibene on the loss of his wife, Elaine. Elaine was very involved with our Foundation's book club for many years.

The family of Dominick DeSimone on his passing. Dominick was a member of our scholarship committee for many years and was instrumental in setting up numerous appearances of his good friend, actor Dom Chianese (Uncle Junior) at the club.

Linda and Joseph Sano on the loss of Linda's uncle, George McCarg Sr.

Who's ready for Super Bowl Sunday? We are big football fans and the Super Bowl is always an exciting day in our home. Even though our team completely bombed this year (Giants fans, you feel me?), we are still excited to see which teams make it and cheer them on. It's a whole day celebration, starting with breakfast. The kids will get a "kick" out of these pancakes!

I make the pancakes with an easy pre-made mix and prepare the batter according to the box instructions while getting my griddle nice and hot. Let the batter sit for a minute, then spoon the batter onto the hot griddle into a football shape. Wait for the batter to start bubbling, flip the pancakes and cook them for another minute or until they are golden.

Spoon some Nutella into a plastic sandwich bag and cut a tiny hole in one of the corners (or use a piping bag if you have one). Squeeze the Nutella onto the pancakes in the design of football laces.

Serve with whip cream, syrup, strawberries, or whatever your family likes!

Buon Appetito
