I.A.C.C. FOUNDATION

The Italian American Community Center established a non-profit 501c3 foundation with a mission to advance, celebrate and preserve the Italian culture and heritage while helping families rediscover the great strength to be found in these traditions.

The Foundation holds many annual cultural programs and events. Our goal is to connect a new generation of Italian Americans with traditions and an ethnicity which has been all but lost in today's world. With your ongoing support we hope to continue this good work for generations to come.

HONOREES' BIOS

DAVE CESARI Italian American of the Year

David was born in Niagara Falls, New York, moving with his family to Albany in 1972. He is a graduate of Colonie Central High School and Albany Business College. David has one daughter and 2 grandsons that are the light of his life. David says, “I am blessed with many good friends and colleagues”. He is a huge Buffalo Bills fan, enjoys a good game of golf, and working with other local businesses to support the community.

Following in his grandfather’s and father’s footsteps, he started working for Morgan Linen Service in 1977. Under his father’s guidance and supervision, he worked every aspect from the top to the bottom of the laundry business. He says, “If you knew my dad, when I say I started at the bottom, I did, and I thank him for that now, maybe not so much back then”!

In 1989 David became the plant manager and by 2001 he was the President and CEO. David boasts “I am surrounded by many loyal and dedicated employees, and colleagues”.

Since that time through acquisitions and new sales, Morgan Linen have become the industry leader in the market, best known for our snowflake signa, quality and service. The company believes in giving back to the community and supports several charities including Ronald McDonald House, Center for Disabled, Hospice, and countless others.

David has proudly served, in the past, on the Board of Directors for the Italian Community Center in Albany, Colonie Chamber, Hospice Foundation, and Upstate Bakery and Drivers Pension Fund. “I am very honored to receive this award,” said David.

The IACC is proud to announce that David Cesari is the Italian American Community Center’s Italian American of the Year!

HON. PAUL COLLINS

Italian Spirit Award

Paul M. Collins was born on February 22, 1949. Paul was a graduate of Vincentian Institute in Albany and was an active alumnus of his cherished alma mater. He attended the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, Mass., where he majored in history, graduating cum laude, and became steeped in the ideals of Jesuit social justice. Throughout his life, Paul devoted himself to serving the next generation of Crusaders as President of the Holy Cross Club of Eastern New York. Paul earned his juris doctorate from Albany Law School, where he was salutatorian of the class of 1974. The same year, he began a courtship with Lea Campion. They married in 1976 and embarked on a life-long journey together, bringing four children and six grandchildren into the world.

Paul began his career in law as an assistant corporation counsel in Albany, working his way up to executive deputy counsel until his departure in 1985. He spoke fondly about his time as a "baby lawyer" and frequently recounted the memorable days of his legal career working with Erastus Corning II, Tom Whalen, and the staff and attorneys in corporation counsel. From 1985 - 2005, he was an attorney at Hinman Straub P.C., eventually becoming a principal partner, where he focused primarily on civil litigation. Paul later served as deputy special counsel to the New York State Board of Elections and argued several times before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. After six years with the Board of Elections, Paul was finally ready to retire, but could never take down his shingle. Instead, he occasionally practiced law for the remainder of his life, helping others with whatever their needs may be, and always giving back to those less fortunate than himself. Paul served as an Albany County legislator in 1983, Paul's accomplishments as a legislator included ushering the passage of the first diversionary program for drug addicts, funding an adolescent drug treatment facility, rebuilding the pool at Lincoln Park, and protecting the rights of members of the LGBTQ+ community.

He took special pride helping to solve the everyday problems of his constituents during his 27-year career as a civil servant. Committed to social justice, he was a true man of the people. Paul was an active member of the New Scotland Avenue and Albany communities. He was a devoted member of the Catholic church and was a regular at the 8:15 a.m. weekday Masses in the Mater Christi Parish. He was the first president of the St. Teresa of Avila School Board, and helped plan the annual bazaar, where he held court at the raffle station with his beautiful wife, Lea. At Westland Hills and Central Babe Ruth, Paul coached his sons' baseball teams. Though the teams were often a rag-tag bunch of underdogs who seldom came out on top of games, he had a positive influence on innumerable young men well after they left the playing field, as well as those that did not play. Quiet in this type of work, he touched the lives of countless young people by finding them jobs or keeping them out of the criminal justice system. When he was not coaching or watching his daughters and sons excel in their pursuits, Paul was busy ensuring the Central Babe Ruth properties were well maintained, concessions were filled, and teams were plentiful, as president of the league. This love of the game carried over to his lifelong devotion to the New York Yankees, which he shared with his father, Howard. Paul spent many a weekend with his family and friends taking in a ballgame (and we all learned not to call him during a Yankees' game). As his children aged out of sports, Paul began substantial involvement with numerous local charitable organizations. He was especially proud of his work with Catholic Charities, providing service to people in need and advocating for justice. He was a longtime member of the Knights of Columbus and the Ancient Order of Hibernians and member of the Italian American Community Center since 2009.

We unfortunately lost Paul earlier this year, but his spirit lives on in all that he achieved and what he meant to everyone in his family, church, and his community, whether Italian or Irish. The Italian American Community Center is honored to present the Italian Spirit Award posthumously to Paul Collins.
